Roanoke Constitutional Laws:

- The Individual Sovereignty and Liberties are a foundational right to every colonist in the settlement of Roanoke

- Cannibalism of citizens or allied parties is *Forbidden

- Necromancy on people is Forbidden without consent from the person or authorization from native tribes and the colony
  - ⇒ As this arcane school is founded in negative energy that spreads adverse effects in Arcania, extra safety measures are required before casting is permitted

- Borders are open to all, but weapon or spell usage laws for Non-Citizens shall be posted and enforced
  - ⇒ All physical weapons are to be clearly displayed on person
  - ⇒ Usage of weapons or attack spellcasting in town is forbidden with the sole exception of self defense

- The open Borders policy reflects Roanoke's views towards creating lasting allies of native inhabitants and other parties
  - ⇒ Roanoke shall aim to only fight defensively and make attempts towards a peaceful encounter with other races, organizations, governments, or others first

- A new Mayor shall be selected via majority vote at the end of a four year term and may be re-elected if the vote sees fit
  - ⇒ Mayoral powers may not be used to influence voters other than with promises made on the candidate's campaign platform

- Amendments to these laws may be made at any time provided there is a colony majority vote of seventy five per cent within three days of calling for a vote

Justice System Organization

In a new world the ability to carry out swift and fair justice is of paramount importance. When a crime or grievance is committed or alleged, an independent party commissioned by the mayor will set out to investigate and gather all the relevant evidence for the trial.

- If the mayor is the alleged, then the investigating party will be commissioned by the town guard or other neutral equivalent.

Every Defendant shall be treated as innocent until proven guilty. Once all evidence is gathered there will be a court hearing for all parties involved. Ruling council will be made up of the Mayor and two rotating neutral citizens that will pass sentencing.

- Neutral citizens will rotate out in the form and function of a jury case by case.

Defendants will be given a chance to plead their case and representatives or victims may be given a chance to plead their case under submission to the Zone of Truth spell. Prosecution may rebuttal and provide their case backed with evidence. The Mayor and council will come to a collective decision for sentencing while keeping our credo in the forefront of their mind.

- Sentencing must be reasonable, fair, and must not be abnormally cruel or disproportionate to the crime committed.
- Sentencing may include but is not limited to penalty of death, exile, public service, forced labor, or other just consequence that serve to uphold Roanoke's vision and security.

We the People,

Under the Crown of Cormyr's Guidance, begin a new colony of Roanoke to act as an extension of King George's reign. With the promise of security and resources from the homeland, the people of Roanoke pledge to uphold a five per cent tax due to the crown.

The Colony of Roanoke holds a great diversity of beliefs, but we come together through community and a persevering will to construct a new home. Through this we choose to stick to our founding principle: "Liberty Above All." We promise to uphold this so that all colonists of Roanoke are treated with respect to their beliefs and individual sovereignty. All who seek a new beginning or religious freedom shall have that Liberty.
